

I would like to take a moment and share with you how the Fairfax County Police Department has recently modified its service to our community members.

We have expanded our Community Reporting System, increasing the number of officers available to handle calls for services over the phone. Community members are encouraged to utilize this system when appropriate to support social distancing guidelines. For non-emergency situations or if you don't have access to the internet, please call 703-691-2131. If there is an emergency, as always, please call 911.

Community members who have been a victim of crime are still encouraged to call the police. We will conduct a thorough investigation, offer resources and take preventative measures.

When you call 911 or the non-emergency number, you may be asked additional questions related to recent travel and if anyone is sick at a location where the police are being called to. These questions are aimed at helping the responding officers keep the community safe from the spread of COVID-19, while still providing essential services.

Department meetings and roll calls are being conducted virtually through video conferencing technology. To continue an open line of communication with our community, district commanders are scheduling virtual community meetings, where you will be provided the latest updates, news, and important information.

Most importantly, your Department will always be here for you and is committed to the safety of our community members, officers, and their families. For additional information and updates, subscribe to the Fairfax County emergency alert system and website. For breaking police information, follow us on our social media platforms.

Thank you for your attention, please take care.
